

Adair County News

VOLUME XXI

COLUMBIA, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1918.

NUMBER 51

ADAIR COUNTY SHORT

Quota of $153,00 Must be Raised.

About $83,000 of the county's quota of $153,00 of the Fourth Liberty Loan has been subscribed. To this about 400 subscribers have contributed. There are 1200 people in the county who are able and possible subscribers. This is an estimate of only 12 1/2 per cent of the total ability of the county. Have we 800 slackers in the county? This is the serious question and one that patriots must know about, and for the honor of Adair county, by patriots, must be answered, that her honor may be vindicated before Kentucky and the world.

Strenuous work must and will be done this week. A more thorough and systematic campaign will be made of the county than has ever been made before. Investigations will also be made, and reasons valid, and honorable, must be shown. The state chairman of the Council of National Defense will be in the county, this week and it is presumed that there will be made for the county an efficient and those working organization of National Defense in the county. This should have been done long ago. It is pointed out by those in charge of patriotic activities in the county: "The time is past for palaver," and the men of Adair county who are able and refuse to do their patriotic duty, must give very good reasons for their delinquency and shame, while the sons of Adair are "going down!" and answer individually before the bar of public sentiment. The county organization is working hard. They have laid aside their business duties and calls. They are seriously determined that the quota be raised which is not excessive by comparison with other counties which have already gone over the top. Every patriot will do his duty. "The slacker will be known among men, and he will know himself."

Hon. James B. McCreary Passes.

The subject of this notice, one of the most prominent men in Kentucky, died in his apartments, at Richmond, early Tuesday morning, October 8. He was twice Governor of the State, a Congressman for several terms and a United States Senator. Besides, he filled other appointments made by the President. He served as a Colonel in the Confederate army, and was with Gen. Morgan at the fight at Green River bridge. He was 80 years old last July. He had an honorable career throughout his entire life. During his last term of Governor of Kentucky he signed the Confederate Pension bill.

Frightful Accident.

(Deferred from Last Week.)

Last Friday, about the noon hour, as Mr. R. W. Shirley and Mr. Thad Spinnell, his visitor and who is a lawyer of Louisville, were entering Columbia, in a buggy, the mare they were driving became frightened, near the Presbyterian church, at an automobile, shied and upset the vehicle, throwing the occupants violently to the ground. At first it was thought that Mr. Spinnell was seriously hurt, but he escaped with only a few bruises. Mr. Shirley was also slightly hurt. The buggy was not damaged.

Must Report by Nov. 1st.

Tax Commissioner L. H. Jones reports 1,800 dogs already listed in the county for taxation. Property assessments show a big increase over last year, and the listing of dogs is marvelous, compared with former years. The tax commissioner's office in the Court House will close on Nov. 1st. All property owners and tax payers are urged to complete their lists before, or by that time.

Notice of Stock Election.

This day came P. K. Jones and 19 other legal voters and residents in Raley voting precinct, No. 12, in Adair County, Ky., and petitioned the Adair County Court to cause to be open a poll at the next regular November Election, 1918, the question as to whether or not stock of any kind should be permitted to run at large in said Precinct.

Germany Surrenders to Wilson's Terms.

Germany in a note picked up by wireless accepts all of President Wilson's terms, agrees to evacuate all occupied territory and declares that the reply to the President's questions is the statement of the majority of the Reichstag. There was no disposition to doubt the authenticity of the note, but as the President was in New York no comment was made. The chief question at the capital was what is the German Government and does the Reichstag really represent the people? It is conceded that the next step to be taken will be for the President to confer with allied leaders. President Wilson at a New York theater was handed the text of the German reply and he and Col. House and Secretary Tumulty read it with apparent interest, but no comment was made by any members of the official family.

Luther Antle Not Dead.

Miss Stella Antle, writing to The News, from Pekin, Illinois, corrects the report that her brother, Luther, was dead. She says:

"I am glad to inform you and the good people of Adair county that the statement that Luther Antle is dead is false. He is well and happy, on the battle front in France, as a letter from him, written the 5th day of September says. He has been wounded, but not seriously. He was in the hospital one month. He received his wound the 19th day of July. He wrote us before we received the telegram from Washington, D. C. This telegram came the 29th of September. "True Akers was seen by Luther on the 5th day of September. He was on his way back to his company. He was all O. K."

Three Deaths at Sano.

Wednesday of last week, Laura, 24 years old; Ivy Lee, 21 and Basil, 16, daughter and sons of Ed Gentry, who lives at Sano, fourteen miles from Columbia, died within a few hours of each other, and were buried the following day in one grave. They were victims of the Flu. This was a sore trial on the parents and universal sympathy is being expressed for them.

Died at Milltown.

Mr. George Blankenship an old citizen of the Milltown section, died last Tuesday with infirmities of old age, being about seventy-five. His funeral was preached by Eld. F. J. Barger, of this place.

Mr. Ores Barger, the grocer, who had the misfortune to get a nail stuck in his right foot, a few days ago, is detained from his business. The nail went almost through the ball of his foot. He is on crutches, but his friends hope that it will not be many more days until he will be able to discard them.

The "Man Without a Country" and Thursday's show were knocked out last week, by order of the State Board of Health. The show will be opened as soon as the flu epidemic is checked. It is now reported to be better at Camp Taylor and other points there are but few cases among civilians.

The Adair circuit court will commence the first Wednesday in next month, the day after the election. Sheriff Sanders and his deputies are now summoning the juries and witnesses and by the time court convenes everything will be in readiness.

For the last ten days corn has matured very rapidly.

"I'll Take One Thousand Dollars."

Mr. Calvin Coomer, who lives in the west end of the county, is a purchaser of a one thousand dollar fourth Liberty Bond. Mr. G. R. Reed and John Lee Walker were in that part of the county, soliciting subscriptions, and while presenting the matter to some gentlemen, a boy, who was present, remarked that his father was going to buy a bond. He was asked where he lived, and Messrs. Reed and Walker were directed to his home. Mr. Coomer was in the yard and when he was approached, he said: "Yes, I want a bond." "How much will you take, Mr. Coomer?" "One thousand dollars." "What bank do you want to check on?" "No bank at all," and running his hand in his pocket he drew out the thousand dollars and tendered it. You can not tell from a man's appearance his ability to subscribe for government bonds.

Noted Minister Dead.

Rev. Samuel M. Miller, a native of Taylor county, died at Owensboro, Monday of last week. He left a wife and one child. His ability was known to a great many Columbians and his death was keenly felt here. He had the reputation of being one of the most interesting preachers of the Louisville Methodist Conference. He was pastor of the Church at Owensboro. His charge before going to Owensboro was in Louisville where he was dearly loved as a pastor and minister. The burial was at Campbellsville, but it was private, the deceased having been a victim of the Flu. Rev. J. S. Chandler and Rev. Lewis officiated at the grave.

Removed to Roy.

Miss Mattie Sinclair, of this place, has purchased of Mr. Geo. Redman, the latter's residence and plot of land, stock of goods and store building at Roy, this county. She has removed to the property and will engage in the mercantile business. She has had many years experience as a saleslady and her friends hope that she will soon build up a good trade at her new place of business.

Wheat Grader.

I have at G. B. Smith's mill in Columbia a new wheat grader. Farmers and all who sell wheat are solicited to patronize us for wheat grading.

W. H. Dixon, Garlin, Ky.

The Fiscal Court, while in session the first week of this month, looked at several farms located near Columbia with the view of buying what would be termed "The Poor Farm," but it did not find one that it considered the court wanted. The purchase has not been abandoned and other farms will be considered. If a purchase is made the inmates of the poor-house would be removed to it. LATER—Since writing the above the above the Court has purchased of Allen Walker the farm known as the Lucien Moore farm, for $6,000. It is near Montpelier.

Mr. Jim Nick Conover, who lives near Montpelier, has rented Mr. Henry Hurt's residence, on "Bomar Heights," this place, and will remove to Columbia between now and Christmas. Mr. Rollin Willis purchased Mr. Conover's farm and will remove to it. Mrs. Fannie Willis, mother of Rollin Willis, will occupy a part of Mr. T. E. Waggoner's residence, this city.

Persons calling for freight at my office must pay cash for same, I will not hand out packages unless the charges are paid. Elzy Young.

It is frequently asked who is the largest subscriber for the Fourth Liberty Bonds in Adair county. The information has come to the News that Mr. Hudson Conover is the holder, he having purchased $2,300 worth.

Mrs. C. C. Roe, who lives at Sparksville, and who fell and broke her left arm, is getting along all right, though she was a great sufferer for several days.

Our sympathy is extended to Mr. Robt. Ingram, cashier of the Bank at Russell Springs, whose brother died in Camp one day last week. The remains were conveyed to Owen county for interment.

Bountiful Birthday Dinner.

Last Thursday was Mrs. Mary Dunbar's 87th birthday and the event was duly celebrated at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Walter Ingram. There was a very elaborate spread, consisting of the substantial and the delicacies. Besides relatives and friends present, who live at home, Mrs. Dunbar's two sons and their wives and her daughter, who lives in the far West were at the table.

Mrs. Dunbar was the happy recipient of quite a number of presents, and her expressions showed that she was delighted, knowing that her children were taking all the pains they could to make her latter days enjoyable.

In obedience to an order issued by the State Board of Health, the Graded School, this place, was closed last week, the flu raging in many parts of Kentucky. The Lindsey-Wilson dismissed its pupils living in and near Columbia, but the boarding pupils remained and the school taught. Both schools will open in regular order soon, as the epidemic over the State is much better, and is fast disappearing. There were only three or four cases in the corporate limits of this place, and the patients are recovering.

J. Arthur Mitchell Dies On The Field of Honor.

On the 28 Sept., J. A. Mitchell received a telegram that his son, J. Arthur Mitchell, Ote, Green Co., Ky., was on Aug. 28, reported missing in action. Another telegram on the 8th inst., confirmed his death on 29th of Aug. A letter from the Red Cross assures him of their sympathy. An effort to find out from eye witnesses the full particulars of his death will be forwarded in time for the Memorial service we hope which will be conducted by his pastor, Rev. L. B. Hart, at Ebenezer on the 27th inst., 2 days before the meeting of Transylvania Presbytery in that building.

A Patriot from Prussia.

Mr. A. E. Nacke, of East View, in the good old county of Hardin, spent three days with us this week, and kept every one around the Jeffries Hotel delightfully interested and entertained from the time he came until he left yesterday. Mr. Nacke was here securing volunteers for work on the big encampment at Stithton. A Westphalian Prussian by nativity and educated in a German University, Mr. Nacke is that type of German that is as loyal to America as a native born patriot. His patriotic appeal for the Liberty Loan and for volunteer workers, before the Court House on Saturday afternoon was one of the most inspiring and most applauded that has been heard here.

Will Leave for Hardin County.

The people of Columbia will regret to part from Mr. W. P. Summers and family who have been residents of this place for the past seven years. Mr. Summers recently purchased a large farm in Hardin county and will remove to it the first of this week, having disposed of his possessions in Adair county. Mr. Summers is a high-toned, Christian gentleman, and has made many friends in Adair county, all of whom, as above stated, will regret to give him the parting hand. He has a most excellent wife, and a family of interesting children, such people as our town would like to keep. Church and society will miss this family. In fact, Adair county loses, and Hardin gains.

Died in Frankfort.

Miss Ann Nell, twenty-three years old, a sister of Mrs. G. W. Staples and Mrs. J. G. Eubank, died at her late home, in Frankfort, one day last week. She had been confined to her room for several months, a victim of pulmonary trouble. In health, she was an attractive young woman, and her friends were numerous. The interment was in the Frankfort cemetery, many friends being in attendance. We extend our sympathy to the sisters here and all other relatives.

Middlesboro Wedding

Miss Rachel V. Callison, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Callison, Middlesboro, was married a few days ago to Mr. Charles J. Iovine, a prominent young man of that city, who is in charge of the Western Union telegraph office. The bride is a favorite in her home town.

Quite a number of mechanics, who went to Stithton from this and Russell county have returned, claiming that there is too much dust in that place. Wherever you find large business you are bound to find dust, as everybody is on the go. At Stithton you can hear the saw and hatchet from the rising of the sun to the setting thereof. It is said that there is not an idol man among the thousands who are there for business.

It does not matter how old they are if sound, but they must be dry. It is the shell and not the kernel that is wanted. Sent to Belgium.

Two thousand four hundred and twenty-seven pounds of clothing left this place last week for the Belgium sufferers. It was all good and a great deal of it was comparatively new. The citizens of Columbia and out in the county were notified to bring in wearing apparel that they could spare, and in a few days the front room of the Sinclair store building was well-filled. It came from people who were willing to give and give on first notice. It was a noble gift, sent to a suffering people, who have the sympathy of all America.

Bride of Battle

A Romance of the AMERICAN ARMY FIGHTING on the BATTLEFIELDS of FRANCE

By VICTOR ROUSSEAU

This is a story of two American wars. It begins with the assault of the American forces upon the Spanish defenders of Santiago in the days of '98 and the scenes of the closing chapters are laid upon the steel-swept fields of France where the soldiers of the great republic of the western world are battling the foes of humanity and civilization.

Intrigue, mystery, chivalry, love, feats of bravery on the field of honor—all these elements are interwoven in a story that mystifies and grips and thrills.

This first up-to-the-minute novel of the new America—the America upon whose arms rests the fate of the world—will appear as a serial in this paper, beginning in an early issue.

DON'T LET THE SON GO DOWN POSTER IS A STRIKING DESIGN

Wonderfully Effective Appeal Prepared for the Eighth District Elicits Warm Admiration.

"Don't Let the Son Go Down.—Buy Fourth Liberty Bonds."

This illustrated slogan is one of the most effective reminders of the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign that has been conceived in any of the loan campaigns, that have been marked by the best efforts of artists and slogan framers.

This particular work of art is the product of the Liberty Loan Organization of the Eighth Federal Reserve District.

It was designed originally as a poster, and posters in striking colors have been prepared ranging in size from the huge 24-sheet posters for billboards to small posters for windows, and on Monday, Sept. 23, when the first of these posters were given to the public, the striking design elicited the warmest admiration.

Also in Electrotypes.

Originally designed for a poster, it has also been modified and has been cast into countless electrotypes of all sizes, ranging down from a cut that will cover a magazine page to a cut half an inch wide.

"Don't Let the Son Go Down" is one of the most appealing advertisements ever conceived.

It represents a United States soldier standing on top of a trench with bayonet charged against the Hun. The poster is printed in orange, blue and black. The setting sun is seen at the back, behind the trench.

SHOW WINDOWS AID LOAN

Pictures and Suggestions Are Sent to Patriotic Merchants for Bond Sale.

If the show windows in our stores can sell goods they can sell Liberty Bonds. And they are doing both.

The Liberty Loan Organization of the Eighth Federal Reserve District is co-operating with the store and shop keepers by furnishing pictures and suggestions for effectively designed displays to boost the Fourth Loan. Circular letters containing half-tone illustrations have been addressed to the "patriotic merchant with a store window," as follows:

"Possibly more goods are sold from window display than all other forms of advertising combined. As the store windows are the best means of selling, we want to organize every store window in the Eighth Federal Reserve District for the selling of Fourth Liberty Loan Bonds.

"If you can think of some clever slogan which would make well into a sign, go to a little expense and have this painted up. Be well assured that the more attractive you make your window display the more good it is going to do, not only to your country, but it is going to bring business into your store.

"Posters will be furnished to you upon application to your Director of Distribution in your community. You will be furnished cheerfully with as many as you desire."

Any merchant that may have been overlooked in the circular list can obtain the posters and suggestions by writing to the Liberty Loan Organization, room 1657, 611 Olive street, St. Louis.

BUYING WAR SECURITIES

St. Louis Labor Editor Says Union Labor Is Trying to Surpass Previous Record.

From all quarters of the country organized labor gives unqualified endorsement of the Fourth Liberty Bonds and the other financial support necessary to make the war a complete success. F. J. Morrin, editor and manager of the Trades Council Union News, which is the official spokesman for organized labor in St. Louis, writes that the government has the wholehearted support of St. Louis' organized labor.

"The trades unionists of St. Louis stand solidly behind the government and its program to prosecute the war to a victorious finish," Morrin writes. "This support is born from the knowledge which inspires the most intense devotion to American ideals and institutions. What is more, the loyalty of our workers is not satisfied to seek expression merely in the waving of flags and similar outward signs of devotion.

"The workers of St. Louis are doing their utmost to help the government in its gigantic task of financing the war. They are practicing thrift as they never did before—and practically every available dollar is being placed at Uncle Sam's disposal in the purchase of Thrift Stamps, War Savings Certificates and Liberty Bonds."

Morrin says the St. Louis unions are tabulating purchases made by the various organizations and individual members, but totals are not now available. He calls attention to the fact that union men have confidence in Liberty Bonds and other government securities from a patriotic as well as a financial standpoint.

GERMAN WAR LOAN METHODS INDICATE FIGHT TO A FINISH

JAMES W. GERARD EXPLAINS WHY HUNS ARE ABLE TO CONTINUE THE STRUGGLE.

BONDS ARE SOLD BY FORCE

Disclosures Prove That Germany Has Counted on Collecting Huge Indemnities.

How vitally necessary it is for the Allies and America to fight the war to a real ending with a decisive German defeat was revealed the other day by James W. Gerard, the American Ambassador to Germany at the outbreak of the war, in a conversation with a reporter. Despite all of the assertions of German diplomats and state officials that Germany wishes no indemnities, Mr. Gerard revealed that the whole German policy of financing the war is based on the very definite plan of demanding all possible indemnities.

The taxes had not been very materially increased—not even the income tax—when Mr. Gerard left the country. Germany was simply doing as she is now doing—financing the war with huge loans which were exacted from the people, but they were funded and financed in such a way that they created a vast and constantly increasing public debt—all in convenient shape to be taken up out of the proceeds from indemnities.

German "Subscriptions."

"A German subscribes say 100,000 marks to a German war loan," said Gerard. "He then takes the bonds which he receives to his bank and receives from the bank a credit of 80 per cent of their value, which is loaned to him upon the understanding that he will subscribe them to the following German loan. And so it continues until a low point is reached. Thus an enormous national debt is built up which is carried by the paper money of the country, since in Germany they can issue paper against property."

"The high authorities in Germany have repeatedly stated that they were planning to finance the war on the basis of a certain German victory; they would exact the last penny in indemnities and make some other nation or nations pay for the war."

So it is quite apparent that the Huns are prepared to fight on as long as they are able. The insincerity of their peace pleas becomes apparent in the light of their war financing. The best observers, in the light of the disclosures regarding their war financing, assert that the Hun merely wants peace to prepare for continuing the war after a breathing space.

Methods Contrasted.

Another decidedly interesting point was developed by Mr. Gerard. When the United States issues a Liberty Loan the country is asked to subscribe freely, but there is no compulsion. That the people may be fully informed upon all points pertaining to bonds and the Liberty Bonds in particular, and that they may fully realize the necessity of backing up their government, the Liberty Loan Committee organizes a far-reaching campaign. The best experts in publicity advertising, salesmanship and finance give of their brains freely. The whole country is also supplied with all information which may in any way aid them in having sufficient data on which to base conclusions.

But in Germany the war loans go forward very quietly. There is no campaign, no publicity department, no corps of expert bond salesmen, no orators, no Liberty Theater, no Liberty Bell, no Liberty Bank. The government simply notifies banks and large insurance and industrial corporations that they are expected to subscribe such and such an amount. This is handled precisely as the individual subscriptions are.

They Never Refuse.

The corporations always subscribe. They have never been known to refuse.

"What would happen to a corporation if it refused?" Mr. Gerard was asked.

"No German corporation ever has refused to subscribe," he answered. "If one ever did it would find itself put out of business by the government very speedily. This is perfectly understood. The intimations received by the large institutions are obeyed implicitly and at once."

The banks also keep tab on the poorer classes of persons. Anyone who has money in the bank is sent for by his bank and told that his balance is so and so and that he must take a certain allotment of government bonds.

So, in the opinion of those who know Germany best, it is not surprising that the Germans allow themselves to be herded to slaughter. Those observers declare that the Germans are a nation which so far as the ordinary citizens are concerned has lost its sense of volition and acts in blind obedience at the command of the ruling classes. They add that as a whole the German nation is a nation of peasants, provincial and without the courage to defy their masters. Such a nation could never aspire successfully to world leadership.

COVENANTED PEACE WITH GERMANY IS OUT OF QUESTION

AMERICA WOULD HAVE TO REPUDIATE CIVILIZATION TO BARGAIN WITH BRUTES.

HAGUE CONVENTION IS CITED

Evidence of Violation of All Rules of Humanity Can Be Doubted by No One.

America, unless we repudiate civilization and abandon humanity and put a premium on savagery and brutality, can make no covenanted peace, no peace by agreement or negotiation with Germany. It would be a covenant with hell, a partnership with infamy.

Nor would such a peace secure peace, except so long as it suited Germany. We can judge the future only by the past, and to Germany sacred treaties are scraps of paper only. Germany's whole history is a record of national treachery, national bad faith, national dishonor, national murder and national infamy.

Article 56 of The Hague Convention, to which Germany solemnly subscribed, is: "Family honor and rights, the lives of persons and private property, as well as religious convictions and practice, must be respected. Private property cannot be confiscated."

World Knows of Violations.

The world knows how Germany has observed this article. There are millions of individual witnesses to her flagrant breaches of it. Every acre of foreign soil Germany has occupied bears mute but unimpeachable evidence of it. There is plenty of German evidence of it, too.

"The goods of different sorts seized in the enemies' territories are in such large quantities that the difficulty of knowing where to put them increases day by day. At the request of the Prussian Minister of War, all chambers of commerce have been asked to give all possible information with regard to storehouses, sheds, etc., which could be used temporarily to warehouse the spoil." (From the Frankfurter Zeitung, January, 1918.)

The German papers have been crowded with advertisements of sale of property taken from France and Belgium. Members of the Reichstag have boasted of, others have censured, the amount of booty brought to Germany from the occupied territory, and the destruction has been far greater than the confiscation.

Loan Must Show Our Answer.

Of the old men and children murdered, of the women and girls ravished, of the noncombatants taken from their homes and deported to work for their conquerors, of the merchant ships sunk and passengers and crews murdered, of the hospital ships sunk, the hospitals and unfortified cities bombed, of the mutilation and murder by crucifixion and otherwise of wounded and captured soldiers—all of this beastliness there is plenty of evidence, evidence that no one can disbelieve.

The best answer to German peace propaganda is sinking more U-boats, sending more men to France, speeding up our work along every line and a heavy subscription to the Fourth Liberty Loan. Peace must mean the triumph of right and justice, the defeat of Germanism, not a truce with it, not a compromise with it.

Our soldiers in France are gloriously doing their part toward victory; the Liberty Loan subscription must show them that the people at home are doing theirs.

SOLDIER PROTECTED PAL

Although Wounded and Suffering, Trooper Covers Dead Friend With Overcoat.

How little we at home are called upon to do toward the ultimate Allied victory when compared with the sacrifices made by our men in the lines can be gathered from an excerpt of Private Peat's narration of his experiences "over there."

One day as he was lying on a stretcher after the first German gas attack at Ypres, Peat says in the American Magazine, a soldier, soaked with blood, mud and rain, minus his overcoat, his tunic torn by shrapnel, came into the field dressing station. As he was shivering with cold, the nurse hurried over and asked him what had become of his overcoat.

"Oh," he answered in a voice quivering with chill, "my pal was killed back there, and he looked so cold lying there in the rain that I took off my coat and put it over him."

Peat's comment on the story is that "if the men in the trenches, with their fighting and their filth, their swearing and their dirt, can show such tenderness and unselfishness and sacrifice I don't believe you here at home are going to fall below them in nobility of spirit."

Need we make further comment? Just think of this story during the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign.

GERMANY'S RULE OF CONQUERED LANDS IS LESSON TO AMERICA

Consider What Would Happen to Us if the Improbable Should Take Place.

Copies of the Journal de Geneve received at Washington show just what sort of a peace the Germans enforce on a conquered people when they feel able to dictate to the conquered.

By cable from London and from the Geneva newspaper just mentioned it appears that among other terms forced by the Huns upon the Roumanians the whole male population from age 14 to age 60 is subject to forced labor at the will of the Prussians. Under this decree Roumanian farmers have been required to work at long distances from their homes and for the sole benefit of the invader.

Officials here point out that America could expect no better peace terms from the Huns in case the fortunes of war should turn against this country and the Germans should dictate how we should make peace and manage our affairs.

Means Virtual Slavery.

It would mean that a farmer might be required to leave his family and farm to get along as best they could while he was put on a train with thousands of others and taken to the passes of the Alleghenies to build fortifications for the Huns against any possible rebellion of Americans against their conquerors.

The same tactics have been followed in Belgium, in Serbia, in Poland and in the Ukraine of Russia, wherever the Germans have made themselves the masters. Roumanian elections have been dictated at bayonet points and the people are not permitted to pass from one part of the country to another without special permits that are very hard to obtain.

It is this known history and these known traits of the German character that make the most telling arguments for subscriptions to the Fourth Liberty Loan. It is only by subscribing the full loan that we are able to maintain armies and keep up the fight, and it is only by creating an army to smash the Hun forever that we can absolutely assure ourselves that this country will not undergo the fate of Belgium or Roumania or North France.

If there were enough "slackers" among the people of this country it would be only a question of time until we were in the same condition as Roumania. The world opinion is firm that Germany had set out to make itself master of the world.

WHOLE NATION AT WAR; NOT ONLY SOLDIERS

By C. H. Martin, Major General U. S. Army, Commanding Camp Grant, Illinois.

The Fourth Liberty Loan should again forcibly remind everybody that the whole nation is in the war, and not merely the men in uniform.

We are teammates in a mighty game; a game which has been developing for centuries. The contending teams are Autocracy and Democracy, and life is the stake for which they are playing. We are now at the very climax of that age-long struggle.

Your part on the team requires a devotion and disinterested forgetfulness of self as complete and unflagging as you expect from the men in uniform. No one can do his duty on any team who measures his duty by any other standard than his entire abilities. It cannot be measured by comparisons with the performances of others.

Do not think that the front, only, is the war; the front is a part of the team. I like to think that it is a part of sufficient importance to engage your enthusiastic interest and support. The anxiety with which you wait for good news from the front is of the same variety as that which the front waits for good news from the back. Any especially good plays on any part of the team strengthen the heart of every member of the team.

It is your play now; oversubscribe this loan cheerfully and with enthusiasm.

Get into the game.

"Win the War for Freedom" day strike. The openly expressed longing for war often degenerates into vain boasting and ludicrous sabre-rattling. But still and deep in the German heart must the joy in war and the longing for war endure.—Otto von Gottberg in Jungdeutschland Post, January 25th, 1918.

The Journal says further that the Treasury Department is watching with a keen eye every piece of legislation which has to do with government finance, and nothing gets its approval which would have any tendency to make anything more desirable as an investment than the Liberty Bonds.

JAMES B. MCCREARY.

No man who has ever figured in the public and political life of Kentucky dies more honored, and more universally beloved. It was his second nature to be gentle in all things. He always did his best and was always kind. No man in Kentucky's illustrious history has emulated his political career. No man, perhaps, ever will. But the quality that we shall always remember and revere him for, was his magnificent personality, and his kind and gentle way of blending his own ambitions with the interests of the "common" man.

BONDS OR TAXATION.

There remains to be raised in Adair county about $70,000 on the Fourth Liberty Loan. Patriotic men who for business considerations hesitate to invest in these bonds must eventually regret their criminal selfishness on reflection that they are for the protection of the lives of our boys in France, for the protection of our properties accumulated before and since the war began, for the security of our banks, for the value of our farms, and for the perpetuation of all of our securities and privileges under a free government.

These bonds are the best investment that can be made with money from a purely financial standpoint. The money must be raised for the successful prosecution of the war either by the sale of these sound interest bearing securities, or by a righteous and necessary conscription of property by way of direct taxation. If this should be necessary, let the greedy slacker squeal and howl in vain. The conscripted blood of our sons who sleep in Flanders fields will echo their lost opportunity.

CERTAIN CLASSES OF MEN.

If Adair county goes over the top.

There are men in the county who have already subscribed, who are able, and ought to increase their subscription, many who can and ought to double and triple it.

There are men who perhaps, are short on cash, but have lands and property and can easily borrow money on these good securities. They should do it and buy bonds to show that they are 100 per cent., Adair Countians and patriots.

Another class are farmers, speculators, traders, brokers, and those who have made large profits and accumulations as a result of the war.

This unearned increment is the price of the blood of our boys who die in France, and should be gladly and willingly loaned for the protection and safety of those who are taking our places on the battle field. A liberal part of these war made profits should be invested for the success of the cause that made them.

Finally, there are 1000 individuals of moderate circumstances who can buy each a $100 Bond, and as many more who could and would, if the torches of German Hell were lighting the archways of their doors, buy a $50 Bond.

THE LATEST WAR NEWS.

The armies pay no attention to peace talk, but are making a master stroke in Flanders.

British, Belgian and French forces attacked at dawn this morning on a wide front in Flanders. The Allied troops are driving in the general direction of Ghent and Coutrai.

In the British formation were some of Great Britain's best troops and the forces of the French were of famous fighting organizations. The Germans appear perhaps prepared to retire to the Ghent line.

The blow in Flanders may prove to be Marshal Foch's master stroke. If the Allied progress is continued the Germans throughout a wide stretch of territory, taking in the most important part of the Belgian coast, including possibly the important Geaman submarine bases, as well as the forces in the entire Lille salient either will have to get out or face a second Sedan.

VICIOUS GERMAN ATTACK REPULSED BY YANKEES.

With the American Forces Northwest of Verdun, Oct. 14, noon (by A. P.)—Violent artillery actions were in progress today along the greater part of the American front.

The most determined effort made by the enemy was on the left across the River Aire between St. Juvin and St. Georges. The Germans advanced in open order and fought with a steadiness that indicated fresh troops. Within an hour however, the American artillery supporting the line of infantry with machine guns had brought the little offensive to a halt.

KAISER NOT TO ABDICATE.

The Wolff News Agency of Berlin to-day issued an official denial of the report which had become current in Germany that Emperor William intended to abdicate.

Great pillar of the Hindenburg line broken down and the Anglo-American drive forcing Germans back toward frontier with losses. Defense system crushed between Cambrai and St. Quentin and Yankees and French continue their progress.

Field Marshal Haig has resumed his attack and reports that rapid progress is being made on a front of more than thirty miles from northeast of Cambrai east of St. Quentin.

UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER.

We reprint in part an editorial from the Sunday Courier-Journal. These words express exactly the sentiments of the News, and we believe, the sentiments of the American people.

It is a time of deepest anxiety. Let there be no premature rejoicing. The prayers of America are with Woodrow Wilson, and the patriot who has guided the nation and has been the example of the world may be relied upon to meet the situation with the knowledge, the skill and the high resolve that is in him. The man in the White House must draft the programme of civilization in its future dealings with the despoiler; that he and his colleagues of the Allied Governments will permit the Hun to retire to his bloody lair still a belligerent is unthinkable.

Much remains to do before the peace pact is signed. Patriots will not think of us as being at the end of the war. It may be true that the Central Powers submit to all the declarations of principles enunciated by the President and desire to discuss their mere details. It may be true that the Kaiser has been thrust into the background by the popular will of a beaten nation. It is undoubtedly true that Germany and Austria are more than willing to withdraw their defeated armies peaceably, as soon as they may.

But shall these armies walk back over the soil they have outraged, bearing arms and as belligerents? Shall they tread the lands between the battle line and the Rhine with their armor upon them, ready to form a circle of bayonets around the Fatherland and menace the peace conference with unimpaired military power? It is inconceivable. It is not possible that the President or his colleagues abroad will consent to such a programme. To do so would be to throw away the dearly won fruits of bitter sacrifice and to leave in the status of belligerents these outlaw Powers whose complete overthrow is but a question of time. It would make the peace conference a meeting on equal terms between the outlaws and the avenging nations, and such a spectacle must not be. The arms of Germany and Austria must be stacked on the battlefield. Their troops must return to their own borders without the instruments of warfare. The reply of Maximilian, thus enforced by the Allies, will then in reality be the unconditional surrender which democracy and liberty and civilization find necessary to keep the world a safe place for them to grow in, and for mankind to work out in the destiny which God intended.

This is the spirit of America and her allies. The President may be trusted to breathe it in the clarity and beauty of its conception. Wait for him before you talk or even think of Peace. The terms have always been, and must always be, two words: Unconditional surrender.

breaking through the German defenses to the south the British and Americans took more than 8,000 prisoners and a large quantity of guns. Near Proment the Americans captured an entire German artillery position of three batteries.

The American losses have not been heavy. The total American casualties is less than half the number of Germans taken prisoners.

The military critic of the Temps has written a letter from the front saying that the German armies are at the end of their strength.

Squire Thos. Gowen, one of our oldest citizens, died near this place on the 5th, with a complication of diseases.

Strong Hill spent the largest part of the week at Toria, where he is putting in a new saw mill.

W. C. Hill, wife and son will take rooms at their brother's, Strong Hill, for the winter months.

Our old friend, Will Diddle, of Adairville, called into see us just for a few minutes on his return from the State of Michigan, where he had been looking after autos. Will is looking fine and says he is enjoying the best of health.

Our school was called off last Tuesday on the account of the well-known disease, flu. We are glad to note that we have no cases in our town at the present and our public gatherings and visitings are all cut out for the time being. Our efficient teacher, Miss Bettie Butler, returned to her home, near Columbia.

American Finds Italy's King a Royal Democrat

Hamilton Holt Interviews Victor Emmanuel at the Front, Where He Lives Rugged Life of a Soldier.

By GARRET SMITH.

An alliance with Republican France in the world war for Democracy is perfectly understandable to every citizen of the United States. In the case of our other chief Allies, however, there are still left some old-fashioned Americans, fed on the king-baiting school histories of a generation ago, who are a bit puzzled to find the country of George Washington lined up with the "king-ridden" nations of Europe.

But the King of Italy is not an old-fashioned King at all.

This view of Victor Emmanuel as a royal democrat is strikingly interpreted by Hamilton Holt, editor of The Independent, who has just returned from Italy, where he had a most unusual interview with His Majesty.

Mr. Holt went to Italy as the representative of the Italy America Society at the time of the celebration of the third anniversary of Italy's entrance into the war. He was received in Rome with much ceremony.

"Finally, after these formalities were over," Mr. Holt told me, "I was conducted up through the northern provinces to the hills just behind the battle line. We stopped at a little villa belonging to a small wine merchant, which had been requisitioned for government use. There were two or three sentinels about the grounds and as many orderlies within. That was all, no other evidence that it was a post of any great importance. An officer led me up to a bed-chamber on the third floor and knocked.

Royal Headquarters Modest.

"Inside I was cordially greeted by a modest, middle-aged little man in a plain uniform that I could scarcely distinguish from that of a common soldier, no epaulets, gold braid or medals, nothing but a ribbon showing years of service such as any soldier might wear. After a hearty handshake, he invited me to be seated."

That was the King of Italy as one Yankee saw him.

"There was not the slightest hint of royal ceremony about our meeting," declared Mr. Holt. "He simply ushered me into his apartment and invited me to sit down, as any private citizen would receive another. And it was a very simple little apartment with no hint of luxury about it. There was a simple bed, washstand, bureau and two or three little straight-back chairs—chairs that looked as though they might be of maple. I remarked on the simplicity of his quarters and he said they were much better than some he had occupied."

"In five minutes' time I had lost all sense of being in the presence of royalty. You know that ordinarily court etiquette demands that a private citizen shall not speak to a king in the course of an interview except to answer His Majesty. Before I realized it I had forgotten all about that convention and we were chatting freely, asking and answering questions back and forth and actually swapping yarns in good old Yankee fashion. He kept me talking for three-quarters of an hour and, of course, I had nothing to do with the length of the call, as I naturally followed custom to the extent of waiting for him to terminate the interview. The King speaks a perfect English, has a good sense of humor, enjoys telling a good story and enjoys listening to one. In fact the only difference apparent to me in our status as I look back on it was that such an interview was a very unusual experience for me, while it was not at all unusual for the King, and I forgot to be conscious of that at the time.

"Victor Emmanuel impressed me as a sort of combination of Colonel House and the late Frank R. Stockton. He is a man of simple and charming manner, without pose, who has thrown himself heart and soul into the cause of his country and is working for it night and day, as hard as any other person in Italy. But he prefers to stay behind the scenes while doing it."

A Hard-Working Monarch.

That this unceremonious reception of a representative of the American Democracy was no pose for theatrical effect is clearly evident from Mr. Holt's report of what he observed and learned of the King's daily routine. The Monarch has selected this little villa for his headquarters on account of its location in convenient reach of every part of the battle-line. Each morning he rises early, eats a simple breakfast, has a light luncheon put up for him, gets into his automobile and spends the day visiting some point on the line, conferring with the officers and talking with the soldiers, learning their needs first hand and inspiring them by his presence and his counsel. At night he studies the plans of battle for the following day and never retires without sending a letter to his family, to whom he is passionately devoted.

He has made observations of the battlefield from dirigibles and aeroplanes. At one time in 1915 he climbed to the snow-covered crest of Raucher Mountain when the temperature was below zero in order that he might congratulate the Alpine troops who had just captured several Austrian positions.

Experiences Under Fire.

"In the course of our conversation," said Mr. Holt, "he gave me a graphic description of his experience in one town near the frontier. The Austrians discovered his presence in the town and began bombarding it. The King immediately withdrew from the town in order that, as he told me, he might not unnecessarily imperil the residents. What he did not tell me was that he departed from the town open for he was evidently much more concerned for the safety of the people than he was over the peril of his own life."

"He is very much interested in the mechanics of warfare. He described graphically the barrage drill of the Italian troops as he had witnessed it. "He showed me with great glee a German cross from a captured airplane he had framed and hung on the wall of his room. He described the different designs he had seen painted on German planes and was particularly amused at one which had the design of a Teddy Bear."

His Democratic Traditions.

The King's ability to play his present role is the result both of his democratic inheritance from his Savoy ancestors and his Spartan upbringing. He was tutored by a stern, old army colonel, who, at the direction of the boy's royal father, treated him in every way like the son of a private citizen. He has ever since preferred simple, rigorous living. Hunting and mountain climbing are among his favorite pastimes.

"What did he have to say about the political and military situation?" I asked.

"You must remember," Mr. Holt replied, "that one cannot quote a King directly. While we discussed various phases of the situation very freely, I would not be at liberty to give a verbatim report of his opinions. In fact, he was careful in talking with me not to express himself positively on matters of state policy. When I encroached on such ground, he would generally counter by asking me what they told me in Rome about it."

An Admirer of America.

"For instance, I asked him if it was true that Italy desired America to send military aid to her. He asked if they told me that in Rome."

"Yes," I replied.

"The King said that was right—Italy did want our aid. He said we could help particularly by sending them steel and coal."

GOLD, AS WELL AS BLOOD AND STEEL, IS VICTORY PRICE

GERMANY'S WAR CHEST AT SPANDAU KEEP WAS READY WITH ARMY.

OUR CHEST IS BEING FILLED

What Could Our Fighters Do If the Liberty Loan Failed?

Blood and steel and gold win wars; and not the least of these is gold.

There is a tower in Berlin, the Spandau Keep, where for a generation before the year 1914 Germany was hoarding the yellow metal that was to launch her imperial effort at conquering the world. The hoard long since vanished in the red furnace of war and loan after loan has been raised in Germany in order to carry on the conflict.

Germany had the trained men, the blood of the nation; she had the steel and she further increased her steel resources by immediately seizing the great iron-mining sections of France as well as Belgium, but the gold, the credit, has had to be found as the war moved along.

When Germany can no longer raise or force loans, or plunder conquered countries, the war will end in a German defeat. Blood and steel are helpless without it.

Gold Is Vital Here.

Our own war preparations would never have moved had it not been for the mobilized credit of the nation. Without American gold the Allies must have faltered. If the country could no longer raise the money to carry on the war all the training camps would be deserted, our ships would lay at the docks, the American navy would gather rust in quiet waters and the American army, overseas, would face starvation. Our cannon would fall quiet for lack of shells, our rifles would be empty. The Hun could massacre the American troops at will.

That is what it means when we are asked to subscribe to a Liberty Loan. That is the real meaning of the Fourth Liberty Loan. Our armies must be kept in the field. Our navy must be kept at work and our transports and freighters must plow the seas with men and munitions and food. That is why the buyer of a Liberty Bond is actually backing up the men who are with Pershing.

The blood and the steel have gone overseas and the dollars, or what the dollars will buy, must follow them and keep following them.

Not an Idle Phrase.

"Buy a Liberty Bond and Back the Boys Over There" is not an idle phrase. Every word of it is full of solemn meaning. Picture to yourself the despair that would overtake every American in France if he knew a Liberty Loan had hopelessly failed, that his relatives and friends were no longer willing to buy bonds that he might live and fight on!

The rifle in his hand might as well be a broken stick. His bayonet might as well be a burnt match. He would realize that, no matter what he had done, how he had fought, how many American graves there were on the hills of France—that the war was lost, that there was nothing but mockery back of the American front.

That was what, in a measure, happened to the Russian armies when the loose-tongued revolutionaries seized the government. The support of the army was gone. Here in America, 3,000 miles away from the star shells that spot the night and the shrapnel bursts that spangle the days, we are called upon to supply the gold that is to back the blood and steel. The Fourth Liberty Loan is the call for American gold, for the gold that must be a part of the combination of men, money and iron that makes and stiffens armies and makes or breaks nations.

LARGE CONTRACTS AWARDED

St. Louis Manufacturers to Make 300,000 Pairs of Shoes for Soldiers.

Three St. Louis manufacturers have been awarded contracts for 375,000 pairs of army shoes at an aggregate price of $2,579,400. The award is a part of a total contract of 2,021,000 pairs at a cost of $14,107,600 made by the Quartermaster's Corps of the War Department to 31 manufacturers throughout the country.

All of the shoes are to be metal-fastened field and marching shoes. Of the three awards to St. Louis, the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. will make 75,000 pairs, the Brown Shoe Co. 100,000 and the International Shoe Co. 200,000. Under the contract the field shoes must be delivered by Dec. 10, 1918, and the marching shoes by Jan. 31, 1919.

The three contracts, together with contracts for the remainder of the aggregate awards, will absorb every available worker in the country. Even then the work will have to be carried out intensively. But the shoe workers already have indicated their determination to do their share. At the same time they will invest their surplus in Fourth Liberty Loan Bonds.

He Was "Broken"

Capt. Wallace, U. S. A., was a victim of sinister forces that sought to betray America to the enemy. But he "came back." On the battlefields of France he fought for the honor of the army that had discarded him. He lived to win vindication and the hand of the "daughter of the regiment" who had never doubted him.

SKETCHES OF ADAIR COUNTY.

Historical and Biographical that Will be of Interest to all Readers of the News.

BY JUDGE H. C. BAKER.

No. 37.

Reminiscences of Col. Wolford.

He was advanced in years, and infirm with wounds received in battle, when he made his first race for Congress, yet he entered it with all the vigor of a young man—making it hard for his adversaries and interesting to his friends.

I remember on one occasion he spoke at a point in Hart county, some fifty miles from Columbia, on Saturday evening in a joint debate which occupied him until late in the afternoon. He had an appointment for Liberty the Monday following. Sunday morning found him at home and at church, at morning service, having traveled in the meantime a half hundred miles on horseback and most of the way during the night. Yet, with all this he was fresh enough to attend church. The night found him twenty miles on his road to Liberty.

He told me he had learned to sleep in the saddle while in the army and he was not particularly fatigued by the long night's ride.

His speech the next day at his old home town was worthy of his reputation. He was surrounded by his old soldiers and friends, and despite his long rides, he seemed at his best. In the course of the discussion his competitor, in a taunting way, referred to his wounds, and intimated that he was attempting to make political capital from them. It was the first and only time I ever saw the old man exhibit any heat of temper in a speech. He repelled and resented the insinuation that he had ever in any way referred to his wounds, or sought thereby to influence any one to vote for him—and, he did it with such vigorous language that I was satisfied the insinuation would not be repeated.

His speech from beginning to finish was a spell-binder, which carried the crowd with him—cheer after cheer filled the old court-house—hats went to the ceiling, and it seemed at times as if the imprisoned shouts would tear the shingles from the roof.

Wolford was kind-hearted and charitable. He harbored no personal resentments. When the war closed, the Southern soldier found in him a true friend. Here in Kentucky as a member of the General Assembly he advocated full amnesty, and a restoration to him of every right under the laws. He advocated the same course by the United States Government in its treatment of the Confederates from Jefferson Davis down. No one who heard his eulogy of Davis and his service in the battles of Mexico can never forget it.

His liberal and magnanimous sentiments made him deservedly popular with the ex-Confederates—and, in his first race for Congress they manifested their good will by presenting him with a fine saddle horse on which he made the canvass.

The occasion of its formal presentation was a political picnic at this place given by his friends which was attended by several thousand persons.

He was always and ardent advocate of temperance—and in this regard he practiced what he preached. He never used intoxicating liquors or tobacco, and, I suppose, was never known to use a profane or obscene word in his speeches, I never in public or private, heard him tell an anecdote which bordered on the vulgar.

A reasonable limit to this article will not permit me to enter upon his career as a lawyer. His practice was largely in the defense of criminals. Civil business was not in his line. Pleading in the legal sense was not his forte. He knew but little about the written altercations of the courts and technical niceties of the law, and he cared less, provided he could manage to get his case to the jury. There he could play upon a harp of a thousand strings. As a consequence he was in demand in all important criminal cases in the courts which he attended.

He was never a student of books, but he was a student of men. His reading was limited, and his early educational advantages were meager. Had his mind been trained and disciplined and polished with a higher education in his youth he could have grown to the proportions of what we call a great man.

He had a very clear and just conception of the object and true limitations of government and the rights of man. He loved his country and he loved liberty—and, however he might trifle on indifferent matters, he was uncompromising upon principles of government and morals. Neither flattery nor the allurements of office, nor the hope of gain or honor could cause him to swerve to the right or left when these were involved. He had the courage of his convictions—physical courage and moral courage. Tolerant of the views of others, he was fearless in the advocacy of his own, and he never consulted the weather gauge of public opinion in order to decide as to his own course.

He lived and died poor in this world's good.

His remains rest in the cemetery at Columbia, and strange to say, nothing but a stone marks his grave.

Is it not a reflection on the generosity and manhood of Kentuckians when this is said?

To be continued next week.

Don't Wait To Be Drafted!

VOLUNTEER AS PATRIOTS FOR GOVERNMENT WORK!

Carpenters 60c, Laborers 35c per hour.

LODGING FREE

The Government at Washington has called upon the citizens of KENTUCKY at once to furnish the men to build—or lose from the State entirely—the wonderful Camp Henry Knox, at Stithton, designed to be the greatest Artillery Training Camp in the United States.

The credit and good name of the Commonwealth of KENTUCKY must be upheld. And the State MUST NOT lose this great plant, calling for an investment on the part of the United States Government of from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000.

Up to this time the work has lagged for want of men. It is now up to the men of Kentucky to volunteer, or be forced to do so later on. There is no middle course.

TEN THOUSAND WORKMEN MUST COME FORWARD.

CARPENTERS AND LABORERS.

Wages are high and are fixed by the Government, Carpenters 60 cents an hour. Laborers 35 cents an hour. Carpenters and laborers work ten hours each day, receiving pay for eleven hours. Saturday afternoon and Sunday work (not compulsory) double pay for carpenters; time and a half for laborers.

Free sleeping quarters provided with new cots and blankets. Meals 30 cents each. Transportation free to laborers and charges are advanced to carpenters from any point in the State.

SANITARY CONDITIONS ARE OF THE BEST.

Camp Knox was selected for a permanent site because it is located on the highest point of land on the Illinois Central between Louisville and New Orleans. Camp Knox has one of the best health records in the country.

PATRIOTIC WOMEN OF KENTUCKY.

See to it that every able-bodied man in the State, not engaged in other War Industries, volunteers his services at high pay, to help get this great permanent Kentucky camp ready for the brave boys of this Commonwealth and other States, now billeted in tents at Camp Taylor and West Point, so they will not have to suffer the privations of General Washington and the Continental Army at Valley Forge.

If it is not your own son who must be housed at Camp Knox this winter, it is the boy of some other mother—all of them training to protect our Liberty in the great fight for freedom.

Provided men do not volunteer for this well-paid and necessary patriotic work, it is the duty of every loyal Kentucky woman to report them to the nearest United States Employment Service, just as they would a Hun Spy or an Army Slacker.

Show them their Duty!
Make them Volunteer!
Take their Places!

CAMP KNOX MUST BE READY DECEMBER 1st.

Before cold weather sets in, barracks at Camp Knox to shelter not less than 30,000 Army Boys, and the stables for at least 15,000 animals Must Be Completed. This is imperative.

Full-blooded Kentucky co-operation can complete quarters for not less than 50,000 soldiers and 30,000 animals in that time, if all work together. It is a man-sized job, all right, even for Kentuckians, but it can be done, as Kentuckians never fail in what they undertake.

The fair name of the old Commonwealth—the Fourteenth State to be admitted in the Union—is at stake in the National Capital and before the Country at large.

EMPLOYERS---NOTICE---IMPORTANT.

If your work is non-essential, give up some of your men at once and advise them to go to Camp Knox. If the call for Volunteers is not heeded you may be required to shut down completely. We do not wish to do this by compulsion.

This is no time for shilly-shallying. We must have ACTION. The work is Vital. It is Imperative.

Be a Volunteer and Go at Once!

MEN, MEN AND MORE MEN TO SAVE KENTUCKY!

This is an EMERGENCY necessitating drastic action if the call for volunteers is not heeded.

When the order came from Washington telling what Kentucky had to do to save Camp Knox for the State, Federal Director Pratt Dale, of the United States Employment Service for Kentucky, immediately held a War Council of affiliated interests, composed of Mayor W. H. Radcliffe, Constructing Quartermaster at Stithton; John Griffiths & Son Company, builders of Camp Knox for the Government, and O. L. Taylor, District Organizer of Kentucky, United States Public Service Reserve; Edward W. Hines, State Chairman, State Council of Defence. Determined action was decided on. All Government agencies will be invoked to secure the necessary men.

Let the word go out broadcast of Kentucky's need of men in this greatest of humanitarian war works—housing our soldiers.

Let it go out at once.

Preach it from the Pulpit.

Shout it from the housetops.

Organize the Workers at once—and report them to your nearest United States Employment Service or to your County Chairman, United States Public Service Reserve.

IT CAN BE DONE WITH YOUR HELP.

Georgia furnished 5,000 men to save its picric acid plant—raised them in two weeks. Kentucky can do even better.

Major Radcliffe says: "Every nail you drive, every brick you lay, every bit of real work done, will add to the growing load around the Kaiser's neck. The war won't wait!"

Men and Women of Kentucky—Do your duty for your Country and your Commonwealth and help us to Protect YOUR Boys.
